

Why do you think kids bully?

5 S

Kids bully to get revenge and attention.

I think people bully because they're hurting inside and they want others to suffer along with them.

People bully because they think it is funny and want to make people laugh. Also because they feel mad and want to get their anger out on others.

Kids bully because they want to have attention but don't know how to get it, so they bully to get attention.

I think bully because of trouble at home or bad grades and take their stress out on another kid.

I think people bully because they want more friends so they think you get friends for bullying.

To feel better about themselves.

People have bad things going on in their families. So they could take it out on other kids.

I think people bully because they really are insecure and have problems at home and make others feel inferior so they can make themselves feel superior.

They can't express their feelings normally so they hurt people. Sometimes they think if they're upset, everyone else should be upset.

I think that people bully because they want to impress people. They think that it is funny, and they want to feel in control, also to feel better about themselves.

I think people bully to get respect.

The bully could have troubles of their own and let the hurt feelings out at other kids.

So they get over something that happened in their lives.

They want to get their anger out. They want revenge on a person who was mean to them or ratted them out because they did something bad.

I think people bully for different reasons, but mostly because something is going on with them and they don't know how to handle it.

I think that all of these are true. Just because one kid feels one way when something happens, doesn't mean every kid will feel the same way.
