Brush Up on Math!

Incoming eighth graders at Mountview Middle School are invited to attend "Brush Up on Math!", a crash course in the math skills eighth graders need to have in order to feel more success in math at the 8th grade level. This course will be taught by Mountview's eighth grade math teacher, Melissa Tooley, and will serve as a review of skills previously learned in seventh grade. Teachers promise to make this engaging, fun, memory-jogging, and productive, and the best part...no homework or tests!!

Details:

When? August 21, 22, 23, 24 8-10am or 10:00am-12:00noon (you choose)

Where? Mountview Middle School room A325

Who? This course is open to any student entering 8th grade at Mountview in August of 2017

How much? The cost of the course is $100 for the 8 hours of classroom instruction.

Parents must provide transportation to and from the class, and we ask that students arrive on time and be picked up punctually. Students should plan to attend all four days in order to get the full experience of the course. We ask that students come in with enthusiasm and good classroom energy and see this as an opportunity to become familiar with the school, the teachers, and math skills! Students whose attitude negatively affects the class will be asked to leave the course.

If interested, please complete the registration form and send with payment made out to Mountview PTA by August 1st. Classes will fill quickly, so please consider sending in your registration asap!
